Layout Editor:

Pay attention also to the following instructions carefully!

1). PLEASE ADHERE STRICTLY THE GUIDE OF AUTHORS !! http://iaescore.com/gfa/edulearn.docx and pay attention to the checklist for preparing your FINAL paper for publication: http://edulearn.intelektual.org/index.php/EduLearn/about/editorialPolicies#custom-5

2). All articles must follow the IMRAD plus C structure: 1. INTRODUCTION - 2. The Advanced Theory/Proposed Method/Framework/... specifically designed/proposed (optional) - 3. METHOD - 4. RESULTS AND DISCUSSION – 5. CONCLUSION (all included and clearly printed).

3). It is mandatory!! Add biographies of authors as our template (include links to all authors' profiles, do not delete any icons in the template). See http://iaescore.com/gfa/edulearn.docx --> Provide links for all authors to the 4 icons (Scholar, Scopus, ORCID and Clarivate)

4). Use different PATTERNS for presenting different results in your figures/graphics (instead of different colors). It is mandatory!! Re-check all your figures. See http://iaescore.com/gfa/edulearn.docx

5). Please ensure that all references have been cited in your text. Use a tool such as EndNote, Mendeley, or Zotero for reference management and formatting, and choose IEEE style. Each citation should be written in the order of appearance in the text in square brackets. For example, the first citation [1], the second citation [2], and the third and fourth citations [3], [4]. When citing multiple sources at once, the preferred method is to list each number separately, in its own brackets, using a comma or dash between numbers, as such: [1], [3], [5]. It is not necessary to mention an author's name, pages used, or date of publication in the in-text citation [6]-[8]. Instead, refer to the source with a number in a square bracket, e.g. [9], that will then correspond to the full citation in your reference list. Examples of in-text citations:

This theory was first put forward in 1970 [9].
Zadeh [10] has argued that ...
Several recent studies [7], [9], [11]-[15] have suggested that....
... end of the line for my research [16].

6). Please present all references as complete as possible and use IEEE style (include information of DOIs, volume, number, pages, etc). If it is available, DOI information is mandatory!! See http://iaescore.com/gfa/edulearn.docx

Reviewer A:

No matter how good your writing skills are, your paper entitled "Islamic professional madrasa teachers and motivation for continuous professional development: a phenomenological approach" requires revision. As a result, set aside a specific amount of time to accomplish it.

1. Make a cut. Everything that can be said in fewer words should be. Any word or sentence that is not necessary to complete a larger picture should be removed. The simpler your paper is, the better.

2. Check to see if all sections (chapters and paragraphs) are connected and there are no logical leaps.

3. Examine your personal style. Remove any contractions, slang, jargon, or colloquial words from your writing.

4. Do you overuse long and complicated words to make your speech more impressive? If necessary, replace them with shorter, simpler words; however, do not oversimplify your language.

5. Consider this: If you were to read your paper for the first time, would you understand everything? If the answer is no, then you are doing something incorrectly. Read and revise your paper, then read and revise it again!

Reviewer B:

Your paper is interesting enough, but it requires content and presentation revisions.

Results and Discussion section: An excellent discussion is well-organized. A rigorous and concise discussion section is one of the keys to achieving an excellent paper. It serves as a critical platform to interpret and connect your findings with the broader scientific context.

The structure presented below, which we recommend for you, is a traditional 6-step approach to writing a well-crafted discussion section.

1). Introduction—mention gaps in previous research
Example: This study investigated the effects of ".....". While earlier studies have explored the impact of ".....", they have not explicitly addressed its influence on ".....".

2). Summarizing key findings—let your data speak
Example: We found that "....." correlates with ".....". The proposed learning method in this study tended to have an inordinately higher proportion of "....." as ".....".

3). Interpreting results—compare with other papers
Example: Our study suggests that higher "....." is not associated with poor performance in "....." . The proposed learning method may benefit from "....." without adversely impacting ".....".

4). Addressing limitations—their potential impact on the results
Example: This study explored a comprehensive "....." with ".....". However, further and in-depth studies may be needed to confirm its ".....", especially regarding ".....".

5). Implications for future research—how to explore further
Example: Our study demonstrates that"....." are more resilient than ".....". Future studies may explore "....." with feasible ways of producing ".....".

6). Conclusion—summarize content
Example: Recent observations suggest that the ".....". Our findings provide conclusive evidence that this proposed learning method is associated with "....." change, not due to elevated numbers of ".....".

Dear Editor:
Journal of Education and Learning (Edulearn)

We extend our greetings and prayers, hoping that the Editor will be healthy and successful in carrying out his activities.

We are very happy with the information we received that our manuscript can be accepted with minor corrections. Based on this, we immediately rushed and have worked hard to make improvements based on directions from the editor and reviewers on our manuscript. We have revised our manuscript in detail according to the direction of the editor and reviewers, namely:
1. We have adhered to the author's guidelines (http://iaescore.com/gfa/edulearn.docx) in our manuscript.
2. We have also written in full "research grant or contract" in the acknowledgment section.
3. In the biography section (Desi Sukenti) there is no link to analytical clarivate.
4. We ensure that all references are cited in the text using IEEE style (include information of DOIs: there are 3 references that do not have a DOI, because they are written in book form, namely references number 25, 27, and 35). We have ensured that all quotes have been written in the order of appearance in the text is in square brackets. For example the first one quote [1], second quote [2], and third and fourth quotes [3], [4], and so on. We have also ensured that we have written the quotations sequentially according to the reference order.
5. We have checked that all sections (chapters and paragraphs) are connected and there are no logical leaps. We have edited many times to ensure that there are no prolonged words, use of punctuation and so on.
6. We have shortened the title to 2 lines, where previously it was 3 lines.
7. We have shortened the abstract to 214 words (where previously it was 283).

We really hope that our manuscript will be accepted for publication in this reputable journal.

Best regards,
Syahraini Tambak

Dear Editor
After we re-read our manuscript paragraph by paragraph, we saw that there were no more things that we needed to correct and it was in accordance with the actual writing of the idea. Thus, we can confirm that this manuscript is fixed and final. We would like to express our thanks to the editorial team who was kind enough to publish our manuscript.
Best regards,
Syahraini Tambak
